Good will oblige that the discharge

This transaction was made with Mr.

This will involve for them a journey of about 400 miles back to this point, to which the camp is now moving, as against 50 miles if they could have been paid. Should any of them not go to Fort Ellis for payment, I have the honor to request that their papers may be at once returned to me here, where arrangements made to hand their statements, cashed at full value and the money paid to them and hands and hands had such arrangements since the 1st of March, as reported to Department Headquarters at that date.

Sir:

Yours of the 19th received yesterday and hasten to reply.

You labor under a great mistake in conmapposing that I have any desire to take any in anyway regarding the payment of accounts due the Crow treaty. On the contrary I have made every effort to proceed to prompt their speedy payment. To this end I have sent the Final Statement for to Paymaster General and they were returned with instructions to forward them to Leigh Harrods, who is to retain them for some weeks and until I receive his letter regarding speedy action when they were returned here with action or any instructions as to promoting payment.
I sought every avenue of information to procure their pay, and forwarded them to Maj. Bidwell, Fort Ellis, and they were again returned without action, with instructions to have the signatures of the Indians witnessed by Thos. Lafargey. Mr. Lafargey did so and not seeing any way to procure payment, I forwarded the Final Statement to St. Paul, Minn., requesting that an officer be detailed to secure speedy payment. The papers were sent to St. Paul, January 10th last, since which time I have heard nothing from them.

It will be seen from the foregoing that the papers in question have been in the hands of the military nearly all the time and that I have used every effort for to procure payment, while the action taken has forcibly reminded me of the Set of April custom of sending the gold farther.

I wish it distinctly understood this business is purely an official matter, and that my personal feeling, beyond authority, desire to serve the plaintiff of these accounts, is entirely out of character, and very much regretted, and I beg to assure you that I am hourly willing to cooperate with any one further, an interest in their settlement.

In regard to your personal or official concern I have nothing whatever to do or say only in so far as the interests of those committed to my charge are concerned. Then it becomes an official matter, and I shall always adhere to my duty hoping to be able to do so without personalities.

I have received a power of attorney from the late Agent Carpentier to receive the amounts due the plaintiffs, who made him their agent to receive payment of their accounts.

Very respectfully,

Your obt. servt.
