SUBJECT: RR-PSW, PUBLICATIONS, Production, USDA Leaflet 239

DATE: April 24, 1959

A memo from Ken Parker dated March 30 called our attention to USDA Leaflet 239 which was issued in 1944 and is now being considered for reprinting. In our reply we recommended that we be given a chance to revise the leaflet rather than reprint it in its present form. This suggestion was accepted and the WO is now looking to us for a revision of the leaflet by the spring of 1960.

Since you are now out of touch with the annual type ranges, it may be a little difficult for you to figure very strongly in this revision job. Therefore, it occurs to me and I suggest that the San Joaquin crew might be in a better position to do this with guidance from the Berkeley office. If you concur the revision would still show you as the author of the publication but would also carry a note to the effect that it had been revised by someone else. If you concur in this suggestion we will plan to do ahead with the revision. I think you could help materially, however, wish suggestions on the layout and perhaps with photographs for illustrations.

Any comment that you wish to offer will be appreciated.

I am a little cold on the subject of grazing annual type range as covered in Leaflet No. 239, and so I am not in a position to offer suggestions on revisions of the Leaflet. I would like to see any desired changes handled by the San Joaquin crew as you suggest. However, before this is carried very far I'd appreciate knowing what changes are contemplated or needed. Perhaps I can help facilitate the job. I am afraid though I can be of little help in layout and I do not have additional photographs. Most of the photos in the present edition were taken by Jay Bentley, Harold Biswell and M. W. Talbot as I recall.
